

HISTORY with a concentration in International Studies

COLLEGE OF ARTS + SCIENCES

COURSES

In addition to core courses exploring global history, U.S. history, and historical research methods, you'll select international history electives that tailor the program to your interests. Here is a sample of some courses:

Law and Power in South Asia

This course studies the legal systems of South Asia; in particular, it evaluates the role of the British legal codifications in the development of a distinctly South Asian legal system by investigating citizenship, environmental, gender, and property laws.

Women, Gender, and Sexuality in African History

This course examines women, gender, and sexuality in African history, focusing on religious practices, colonialism, health, and social class. Students examine the construction of gender, social systems, reproduction, women's exercise of power, and the attempt to control female bodies.

Palestinians & Israelis

This course addresses the ongoing conflict between Palestinians and Israelis by exploring its origins in the history of Zionism and the formation of Palestinian national identity since the nineteenth century.

Games, Fictions, and Power in China

Using a role-playing game, we explore the workings of Confucian power in imperial China and then study the ways the people thought about power through games, fiction, and philosophy.

THE INTERACTIONS between and among different cultural, social, economic, political, and scientific forces around the globe have profoundly shaped the world we live in today. At Loyola, you will study the past and present interactions of these forces and engage with diversity both intellectually and empathetically, developing a true appreciation for many cultures. Here, you can learn about modern Iran, spirituality and healing in Africa, and the caste system in India. You can examine the influence of saints and demons in medieval Europe or explore the meaning of money across cultures and whatever you interest you land on, we'll give you the tools you need to make it into a career.

Possible Careers:

- International development
- Diplomacy
- Politics
- Journalism
- Business

ATTENDING LOYOLA means being in the heart of New Orleans. Our campus is located in the city's historic Uptown neighborhood, just a short drive from the Central Business District, the city's hub of innovation, creativity, and strategic thinking. You'll learn to hone your talents in the city named #1 new brainpower city in America and #1 best city in the U.S. for creative professionals.
