You’ll complete a year-long senior capstone and select from general electives across the university curriculum to further personalize your program to suit your goals. Courses include:

Intro to Studio Practice

Modern Art
This course covers the pioneering and often controversial developments that characterized European and American art in the first half of the 20th century and how artists of this period used a broad array of visual media, ranging from painting and sculpture to photography and architecture, to challenge and transform audiences’ perceptions of reality and their understanding of the world.

Interactive & Electronic Media
This course introduces students to a range of new media in conjunction with conceptual fine art practices.
