COURSES

The courses listed below represent the curriculum offered within this discipline. This environmental humanities program requires supplemental curriculum from the College of Arts & Sciences to qualify for that concentration. Here’s a sample of what you can expect to learn and do:

Historical Geography
This course is designed to lead you to recognize and understand that environmental issues are not merely local in nature but can also be global. Students experience the effects of human interaction on the local & global environments.

Environmental Ethics
This course examines our moral responsibilities to the beings in the natural world. Among the topics discussed are environmental justice, biodiversity loss, animal welfare, wilderness preservation, world population, global climate change, toxins and pollution, duties to future generations, and the meaning of sustainability.

Christianity and the Environment
Students develop an understanding of the universe and of the Earth as divine manifestations. The course focuses particularly on the Creation-affirming tradition within Christianity and on this view’s capacity to inform contemporary scientific perspectives and interpretations with an appreciation for and articulation of their sacred dimensions.

Possible Careers:
- Environmental lawyer
- Ecological writer/artist
- Environmental journalist
- Urban sustainable gardens

ATTENDING LOYOLA means being in the heart of New Orleans. Our campus is located in the city’s historic Uptown neighborhood, just a short drive from the Central Business District, the city’s hub of innovation, creativity, and strategic thinking. You’ll learn to hone your talents in the city named #1 new brainpower city in America and #1 best city in the U.S. for creative professionals.
